 16. Record briefly the central elements in the history of the institution.
- 1856 On February 12, Benjamin Thompson signed his will leaving over $400,000 to the state of New Hampshire to establish an agricultural school in Durham.
 - 1862 The first Morrill Act was signed by Abraham Lincoln on July 2 granting each state public lands “for the endowment, support, and maintenance of at least one college” to teach agriculture and the mechanic arts.
 - 1866 Governor Frederick Smyth signed a bill on July 7 which provided for the incorporation of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts to be established in conjunction with Dartmouth College.
 - 1868 On April 7, a contract was signed with Dartmouth College providing for an exchange of professors between the two schools.
 - 1868 On April 28, Ezekiel Webster Diamond was elected by the Board of Trustees to serve as the first professor of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts.
 - 1868 On September 4, ten men registered as the first students of the College.
 - 1871 The College graduated its first class.
 - 1887 The Hatch Act was passed on March 2 which enabled the College to establish an Agricultural Experiment Station.
 - 1888 On February 22, George H. Whitcher was appointed to serve as the first director of the Agricultural Experiment Station.
 - 1890 Benjamin Thompson died on January 30. His will stipulated that the state of New Hampshire hold his estate for twenty years, guarantee a compound interest of four percent on its appraised net value, and establish a second fund for which the state was required to appropriate $3,000 annually for twenty years to be used for equipping the College.
 - 1890 Lucy Swallow and Delia Brown became the first female students to attend the College.
 - 1891 Despite some opposition, Governor Hiram A. Tuttle signed the act accepting the conditions of Benjamin Thompson’s will on March 5.
 - 1891 On April 10, a bill was signed by Governor Hiram A. Tuttle providing for the removal of the College and its Agricultural Experiment Station from Hanover to Durham.
 - 1893 Classes started in the fall in Durham. The enrollment consisted of fifty-one freshmen and thirteen upperclassmen.
 - 1893 On May 18, Reverend Charles Sumner Murkland was chosen as the first President of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts.
 - 1895 The “Leach Bill” was introduced to the legislature by Representative Edward D. Leach of Franklin. The bill proposed reducing the board of trustees to nine members. It also required manual labor of students, specified a course of instruction, and proposed a practical two-year agricultural program. The bill was not widely supported and was replaced by an act requiring the establishment of a department of horticulture and a two-year course in agriculture. The final “Leach Bill” was passed and signed, on March 27, by Governor Charles A. Busiel.
 - 1896 The New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts awarded the degree of doctor of philosophy to Charles H. Clark of Kingston, NH.
