

Sent: June 18, 2008

Subject: New TDI Website

We are thrilled to announce our new website! We think you will find it easier to read and navigate and still loaded with useful content. Check out the home page where you can find upcoming events, new publications and other tidbits relevant to deliberative democracy and higher education. This is a new URL. You might want to bookmark it (but don't worry, the old URL will redirect you).

Our website is only as good as its content, and we hope you will play a role in contributing. Please send us links, announcements, publications, Constitution Day links, ideas for communities of practice, etc. and continue to approach your colleagues for course syllabi.

We welcome your feedback (including about the new, lively logo)! Feel free to contact us at democracy.imperative@unh.edu.

Finally, we want to acknowledge and thank Web Solutions at UNH (especially Bre) for their great work on the new logo and site.