

The Dialectic

The University of New Hampshire
Undergraduate Journal of Philosophy

Volume VIII
April 2008

Editor-in-Chief

Trevor Mauck
Patrick Ryan

Editorial Board

Guillaume Delloue
Alicia Shotwell
Jack Harden
Brad Larsen
David Samra
Justin Rondeau
Jonathan Meadows

Faculty Advisor

Professor Nick Smith

The Dialectic* Editors
would like to thank:

The UNH Philosophy
Department Faculty and Staff

The UNH Student Press
Organization

MUB Copy Center

Statement of Purpose

The Dialectic is a student-led journal devoted to the publication of exceptional undergraduate papers.

The Dialectic has undergone many changes since its first publication in 1969. It has been published under three different names (The Monad, Dasein, Zeitgeist), but its goal has remained the same: to encourage students' interest in philosophy.

Dialectic will be published online at:
<http://unh.edu/Programs/dialectic.htm>

Editor's Note

Working with my fellow editors has been rewarding. Carrying out the publication of this journal has been an honor. And serving this department—a blessing. Thank you, Trevor.

Dialectic: The art or practice of arriving at the truth by the exchange of logical
Arguments

The Dialectic
April 2008

What is Enlightenment?: Richard Rorty and Enlightenment after Certainty.....1
By Christopher Wells

Forcing Freedom: Applying Mill’s Principles of Liberty in an International Society.....16
By Jill Zimmerman

Natality and Dasein: Exploring Action in the Thought of Hannah Arendt and Martin Heidegger.....26
By A.C. Boucher

Private Rights and the Public Good.....35
By Trevor Mauck

Caricature of a Socratic Self-Examiner.....49
By Sky Masella

The Liberal and the Ironist: Partnering by Partition.....64
By Patrick Ryan

Rorty, Hermeneutics, and the Conversation.....77
By Jack Harden

Call for Papers (2009).....87