Supervising Interdisciplinary Partnerships in Child Welfare

Creating a Child Welfare Eco-Map

Directions:
Place your child welfare agency’s name in the large circle in the center.
Fill in the other circles with other agencies that service children and families.
Use the key below to draw lines that describe relationships between your agency and others, as well as your perception of the relationships between other agencies.

- _______ strong, supportive, positive
- ----------- weak, undeveloped
- ++++++++ challenging, stressful

Use arrows to describe how energy and resources flow between agencies. Some relationships may have bi-directional arrows.

Questions to Consider:
Which agencies have we developed a positive, strong report with? How did this happen? What evidence do we see of this collaboration in our work?
Which agencies have we struggled to develop positive or strong relationships with? How did this happen?
Which relationships cause stress for workers or the agency?
If the agency could select 5 other agencies to develop partnerships with to improve outcomes for children and families, which would you choose? Why?
