To the UNH Manchester Student Body:

We have been evaluating how to support your health, safety and continued learning amid the coronavirus (COVID-19) situation. We are working hard to proactively address the concerns of you, our students, and are implementing a new operational plan for the next few weeks.

Per the March 12 email from President Dean, all classes on the Manchester campus will move to an online format from Monday, March 23 through Sunday, April 5.

- From March 23 through April 4, there is no need to return to campus. There will be no face-to-face classes, and you will be interacting with faculty and classmates in a fully online format.
- All student meetings and events as well as external events on campus have been cancelled through Sunday, April 5.
- UNH Manchester Downtown Commons campus housing at 1000 Elm Street will remain open to students who are not traveling over spring break. Students who travel to one of the areas listed in President Dean’s March 11 email are asked to not return to the residence hall until after the CDC-proscribed 14-day self-quarantine period and, in any case, no sooner than Sunday, April 5. We will send additional details to students living in campus housing soon. In the meantime, feel free to contact Lisa Enright, director of student engagement.
- Please take any devices, textbooks and other critical materials to be able to continue your coursework remotely as well as any personal effects, valuables, medications or other items you may need with you when you leave campus on Friday, March 13.
- All student-facing services will also move online during this time, and you will still be able to access staff and services for the library, CAE, advising, financial aid, registration, etc. Please contact the appropriate department below for questions or to schedule an appointment.
- Student workers should speak with their supervisor(s) to determine work arrangements during this time.
- The building will remain open to staff and faculty, as well as to students who:
  - Need computer/internet access in order to complete online coursework
  - Have a work study position that is critical to operating functions (student workers should connect with their supervisor(s) to determine work arrangements)
- The Library and Center for Academic Enrichment will remain open for students who do not fall into one of the identified quarantine categories. Students who need Internet access may use this area.
- A big “thank you” to all students who responded to the survey distributed yesterday seeking input about Internet access and other student support needs. We received over 400 responses, which will really help us manage our support during this challenging period. Students who identified the need for support will be contacted by UNH Manchester staff members.

Faculty will be in touch with more details on the transition to online coursework, so please continue to check your email for updates. Student services contacts:
