

Exploring Social Justice and Cultural Competency Using an Experiential Learning Approach

UNH Undergraduate Course - 4 credits # SW 650 , CRN: 54961
NEW TIME - Wednesdays 6:10-8:30P

CROSS COUNTS WITH
WOMEN'S STUDIES
CROSS COUNTS WITH
RACE & ETHNIC STUDIES MINOR

S
P
R
I
N
G

2
0
2
0

This course uses adventure-based activities to address social justice issues and cultural competency. Students will participate in an engaging “learning lab” where an activity-based approach and guided reflection are used to build community and foster awareness of social identity, oppression, privilege, allied behavior, and action planning.

Learner Outcomes:

- In-depth exploration of social justice concepts, terms, and resources
- Active participation in dialogue and skillful discussion around sensitive issues
- Expand knowledge of adventure activities to address provocative issues
- Heighten awareness of facilitation skills to promote dialogue and reflection
- Participation in a student-centered learning lab committed to social activism
- Application and transference to your field of study

REGISTRATION INFORMATION:

<https://courses.unh.edu/>