Students Rights, Rules, and Responsibilities
The University provides a wealth of resources to support your success as a member of this community. The opportunities to learn and to grow are virtually limitless, shaped primarily by how you embrace the intellectual and personal challenges of a college education. While these rules apply primarily to students, they are consistent with the expectations for all members of the UNH community. This year’s Student Rights, Rules, and Responsibilities establishes the expectations needed to create a healthy learning environment on—and beyond—the University campus. One crucial aspect of this environment is our collective commitment to respecting the rights, dignity, and worth of all community members. We hope that you will take the time to review Student Rights Rules and Responsibilities to understand the values and rules of this community. www.unh.edu/student-life/handbook

Did you know? Close to half of the total UNH student population lives off campus. That’s approximately 7,000 full-time students living off campus throughout the academic year! Choosing to move off campus is a big decision that will change your college experience. You’ll be living on your own, have more space, more privacy, and increased independence. However, make sure to understand and prepare for the responsibilities that moving off campus adds. You’ll have to cook, clean, budget, find transportation to and from campus, and reconnect with campus life.

This guide is designed to help students get ready for their first move off campus. To get started, fill out the budget chart below to estimate what your monthly expenses will be. This will help you avoid financial troubles down the road.

On the following pages are brief introductions to the local towns and communities. Each town has separate ordinances, zoning, and other rules, including regulations on trash pick-up, so be wary of special laws designated to your place of residence.

Durham is a community with tremendous wealth of natural resources and a dynamic ecological diversity. It’s also a beautiful community with spectacular open spaces and intimate quiet settings. It’s a community of active and thriving neighborhoods. It’s a community that values education and quality of life.

It’s a community of entrepreneurs, artists, and creators. It’s a community with a vibrant, active downtown comprised of energetic and imaginative businesspeople. It’s a community without the strip commercial development and suburban sprawl afflicting much of America, and a community that strongly wants to protect and preserve its heritage and resources. (From the Town of Durham website)

Approximately 15,182 people call Durham home and you are now part of the community! Below are a variety of resources to help acquaint you with how the town is managed and where to go with any issues or concerns that may arise during your time as a Durham resident.

Celebrate Durham

Celebrate Durham is a collaborative partnership cultivating a vibrant multigenerational and diverse community. The organization welcomes all businesses, non-profits, residents, and community/campus groups with the goals of networking as well as fostering and promoting events and relationships that strengthen the greater Durham community. For more information about Durham or to get involved please visit www.celebratedurhamnh.com.

Safety Around the Schools

Durham is home to two schools – a middle and a high school, located on Coe Drive and Dennison Road. Our kids look up to college students – so if you live or travel near the schools, please remember that kids are impressionable! Drive slowly, especially during school drop off and pick up hours; keep your outside environments clean; and be aware of music or language when kids are around. We welcome you to our community and know that we can all enjoy each other’s company. Thank you!

Town of Durham and University of New Hampshire
Statement of Shared Civic Commitment

The University of New Hampshire and the Town of Durham share common values and standards. Each is committed to creating a positive social environment for its members and enhancing the welfare of all. The University’s location within the Town of Durham creates a special relationship that requires mutual respect, open and continuous communication, and then fulfillment of civic responsibilities by community members. We are collectively committed to cooperation in the resolution of mutual problems.

Civic Standards of the University of New Hampshire and the Town of Durham
A sound community is based on the principles of respect for individual integrity, respect for individual rights, responsible stewardship in the care of the physical environment, respect for law, and cooperation and service. All members of the community should make a conscientious effort to live by the following standards based on these principles.

I. Respect for Community
Community members show respect for the integrity and worth of all persons. Such respect requires one to:
   a. Act in ways that are constructive, honest, and considerate.
   b. Value basic civil rights as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.
   c. Accept persons whose race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ability, sexual orientation, or age may differ from one’s own.

II. Respect for Environment
Community members value and protect natural and physical environments.

III. Respect for Law and University Policy
Community members abide by the policies of the University of New Hampshire as applicable, and obey the laws of the Town of Durham, the state of New Hampshire, and the United States of America. They accept accountability for their individual actions. Special emphasis should be placed on obeying laws, and policies regarding:
   a. The sale, purchase, or consumption of alcoholic beverages;
   b. The sale and/or use of illicit drugs;
   c. Violent, indecent, or disruptive behavior including sexual and domestic violence and harassment;
   d. Landlord-tenant contractual relationships; and
   e. The protection of public and private property.

It is the intention of the University and the Town of Durham to treat all members of the community with fairness, dignity, and respect. We are collectively committed to addressing violations of law and University policy in a timely, predictable, meaningful and consistent manner.

Dr. James W. Dean Jr., University President  Todd I. Selig, Town Administrator
Like many towns, there are certain laws that are created for public safety and to keep the peace between neighbors; Durham is no different. Below are three examples of town laws that you should be aware of while living off campus.

Noise Ordinances
Durham quiet hours are from 10pm to 7am, seven days a week. Violations can be called in for disturbing others with anything too loud (more than normal conversation from a distance of 3 feet). Permits for special events can be obtained at Town Hall. A violation of the noise ordinance results in a $100 fine for the 1st offense. Fines double with each subsequent offense with the maximum fine being $1000.*

Trash in Improper Places
In an effort to keep the areas of Durham clean, an ordinance has been enacted to eliminate trash. Violations of this ordinance result in $150 fine for the first offense; a $300 fine for the second offense; and a $1000 fine for the third and subsequent offenses (Clean Up by Sun Up!).*

*It is important to note that all fines carry a 20% penalty assessment that has not been included in the aforementioned fines.

Durham Winter Parking Ban
Winter Parking Ban takes effect from November 1st through to April 1st. No vehicle may be parked on any Durham road or town-owned parking lot between the hours of 1AM and 6AM.

If you live outside of Durham, make sure you know and understand the laws of the community in which you reside. Call the town or city offices with your questions before a conflict arises!
In addition to town laws on the previous page, several NH State laws are highlighted below:

STAYING SAFE

Safety is a top priority whether you are on or off campus. The following services are available to ensure that your time at UNH is safe and successful.

University Police Department
The UPD is committed to keeping all UNH community members and visitors safe. For a full list of programs and services they provide, visit www.unh.edu/upd.

UNH Safety Escort Program
Coordinated by the UNH Police Department – Support Services Division, a walking escort is provided free of charge by Campus Services Officers to members and visitors of the University community. The number to get a walking escort is 603-862-1427.

UNH Blue Light Emergency Telephones
Emergency phones are available all around campus to help offer support to those in need. Police emergency response time on campus is within two minutes.

Guaranteed Ride Home
This is a service for anyone who does not own a car, or use public transit, and needs to get home ASAP. The service guarantees a free ride from campus to your home (within a 40 mile radius) in the event of an emergency (illness, etc). Contact Wildcat Transit at 603-862-2328.

Home Security
Here are some tips to secure your home: Keep all doors and windows locked when not in use. Never let strangers in your home without proper identification. Do not panic if your home has been entered and do not go into the unit. Contact the police and your landlord immediately. Make sure all entryways and stairwells on the property are well lit. Do not automatically open the door when someone knocks. Ask who it is...if you have questions about the response; do not hesitate to keep the door locked!

LiveSafe - The Free Public Safety App
LiveSafe allows two-way communication and tip reporting, which connects to a central dashboard that will be monitored 24-7 by campus police. Using the LiveSafe app, students can ask safety-related questions and report information with text, picture and video evidence while also choosing to remain anonymous.

UNH Alerts - alert.unh.edu
UNH Alert is a free alert system that allows the University of New Hampshire to contact you during an emergency by sending messages to your e-mail, pager, or cell phone. When an emergency occurs, authorized senders will instantly notify you with real-time updates, instructions on where to go, what to do, or what not to do, who to contact and other important information. Your wireless carrier may charge you a fee to receive messages on your wireless device.
In a fire, survival is your top priority. Seconds count. You don’t have time to stop and think. The steps below will help you create a plan of action during emergencies and could even save your life.

- Think about what you would do if the fire or smoke was blocking one of your exits. Are there at least two ways to exit your living space if it is not protected by sprinklers? Are the doors into the common area fire rated?

- Working smoke alarms can double your chances of surviving a fire incident. New Hampshire law requires hard-wired interconnected smoke alarms in all rental properties. You can help to ensure you won’t get trapped in a fire by checking your smoke alarms, planning an escape route, and acting when fire alarms go off.

- A working fire extinguisher can be the difference between a small fire and a major fire. It is important to note where fire extinguishers are available in case of an emergency.

- Landlords that belong to a landlord/tenant association or other housing association may have shared resources. You can check with the fire department to confirm that your rental has received its Rental Housing Certificate and see if any safety complaints have been received regarding your property. Regular inspections by the local fire department can help catch and prevent insufficient safety practices. Make sure you know the owner’s policy or method for correcting safety concerns on your property.

- Take responsibility for fire prevention. Clean up after parties, put candles out, and keep space heaters and halogen lamps away from combustibles. Basements, attics, and mechanical spaces and roof tops are not designed for routine human occupancy, much less a gathering of a large number of people.

- Knowing what to look for in safe off-campus housing is a big issue. Many students are renting an apartment for the first time. Don’t be afraid to ask for help. You can always anonymously ask the Durham Fire Department questions about safety. Don’t be afraid to call, especially if you feel where you’re living is not safe.

For more information, contact the Durham Fire Department at (603) 862-1426.
When moving into a community, students must consider the needs and desired environment of those who already live there. Students are often short-term residents who move frequently, and those who have chosen to live in an area long-term often feel invested in their neighborhood and community at large. Often, interests and lifestyles of short-term and long-term residents conflict, with each party not fully investing in building a positive relationship. Be prepared to live as a responsible adult if you choose to reside among long-term residents. Follow these five simple rules and you’ll be on your way to building strong ties with your neighbors.

1. Keep your property clean at all times. Trash attracts bugs and/or animals and detracts from the appeal of the neighborhood.

2. Watch your noise levels. Families with children need a quiet environment. Loud music, shouting, and increased traffic will disrupt neighbors.

3. One of the biggest issues neighbors have is partying and get-togethers. Talk to your neighbors before planning a get together and give them your phone number so they can call if it gets too loud. Limit the number of guests at your get together and follow the laws of your community.

4. Get to know your neighbors. Ask them for help when you need it and be receptive to requests for help. Strive to be approachable and friendly.

5. Indoor furniture is designed to be specifically that, indoor furniture. Your front porch or balcony is not considered indoors. Furniture left outdoors can start to mold and smell once it is wet.
Thinking of renting an apartment? Here are a few tips to help get you started. If you need legal advice, the Student Senate Judicial Affairs Committee maintains a list of area attorneys for students and sponsors legal resource programs throughout the year.

DON’T SIGN A LEASE, unless you understand the terms. This is a legal contract, and it can make you legally liable for things you weren’t aware of, like your roommate’s rental payments if they leave town.

WRITE IT DOWN! Start a notebook the day you move in. Keep it in a central location and use it to record all information about the apartment, such as messages to/from landlord, phone messages and numbers, bill payments, etc.

INSPECT THE PLACE. When you first move in (and out) do a very detailed inspection, write it all down—every scratch and mark. Keep a copy and give a copy to your landlord. Take pictures. This will be your protection. If you don’t do it within 5 days, the landlord can claim that any pre-existing conditions were caused by you (See Apartment Condition Checklist on page 38-39).

AGREE TO DISAGREE, BUT AGREE! A roommate agreement should be in writing; talk it out—what are the expectations, how often people can stay over, cleaning assignments, when parties are okay, etc. (See Roommate Agreement on page 40-41).

DO NOT ENTER. A landlord can only enter your apartment without your permission to make emergency repairs. In all other cases, the landlord must give you reasonable advanced notice and have your consent.

EVICITION IS UGLY! There is a legal procedure a landlord must go through to evict you. It is illegal to be simply thrown out/locks changed—no matter what the lease says.

MONEY BACK GUARENTEE. You are entitled to the return of your security deposit within 30 days from termination of your tenancy, provided you gave your landlord a forwarding address in writing! The only deductions a landlord can legally make are for damages caused by you and unpaid rent.
When you have finally found the apartment of your dreams and are ready to rent a property, be sure to use this checklist to cover yourself. There are a few issues you should pay special attention to, so be ready to write notes, take pictures, and document any current damages.

General Questions:
- Are utilities (gas, electric, water) included in the rent? If not, what is the average cost?
- Does the front door work properly? How many keys are there? Are you allowed to make copies?
- Does the doorbell work, if there is one?
- If the property is furnished, is there anything broken or not working properly? If so, make sure you tell the landlord/property manager.
- If you have your own furniture, is it going to fit well in the space? It is recommended to measure the rooms and the doors to make sure all the furniture will get through.
- Is there any limitation regarding the number of occupants and guests?
- Are children and pets allowed in the property?
- Is there a security deposit? If so, what must be done to receive the full refund?

About the building:
- Is there parking on the grounds? Is it included in the rent or do you pay extra for it?
- If there is no parking, where can you park?
- Is there public transportation access nearby?
- Is there a grocery store within walking distance or do you need a car?
- Are there laundry facilities on the grounds? If not, where are the closest ones?
- How does the building lock? Is it clean and well maintained?
- When is garbage day and where should you put your garbage? Is recycling available?
- Is there a maintenance person in the building?
- In case of emergency, whom should you call?

Floors, Ceilings, and Walls:
- How is the carpet/floor? Is it dirty or stained? Does it need to be cleaned before you move in and move out? Who will pay for it?
- Does the inside need to be painted? And if so, who will do it and pay for it?
- Are there any cracks, leaks, or warps in the ceiling?
- Is there any paint chipping from the ceiling or walls?
- Are you allowed to decorate the walls?

Windows:
- Are there holes or tears in the screens?
- Are any of the windows broken?
- Are the windows well insulated?
- Can you put in an air conditioner or fan?
Heating and Air Conditioning Units:
- What is the heating source (gas, oil, electric)? Is there a control switch inside the property?
- Have the units been kept clean?
- Do they work properly?

Faucets and Water:
- Do the faucets work properly? Do any faucets leak?
- What type of shower/bath facilities do you have?

Lights and Outlets:
- Do all the light switches work?
- Do you have to buy replacement light bulbs, or does your landlord supply them?
- Is the walking area to your door well lit?
- Can you get motion sensor lighting for outside?

Appliances:
- Do all the knobs on the oven work?
- If the oven is gas fueled, does it light properly?
- If the landlord owns an outside grill, are you allowed to use it?
- If there is a garage door opener, are you allowed to use it?
- If there is a fireplace, are you allowed to use it?
- Is there a circuit box for your facility? Is it accessible and easy to comprehend?
- If the house operates on gas or oil heat, how do you fill the tank? Who pays for it?
- Are there smoke detectors and fire extinguishers on the property? Do they work?
- Are you allowed to have a gas or charcoal grill?

Additional Questions?
- Do you have postal mail service?
- How do the countertops and cabinets appear (i.e.: worn, cracked)?

SAFETY DEPOSIT NOTICE
According to the New Hampshire statute (540-A:6(I)), a tenant must provide the property owner with a written statement of “any conditions in the rental unit in need of repair or correction” within 5 days of occupancy. Upon official termination of the rental period, the property owner must return the deposit, with interest if held over 1 year, within 30 days. Any charges for damages must be listed on an itemized statement along with evidence of estimated cost of repair.

I promise to look for a replacement roommate who is acceptable to my present roommate(s). If one of my roommates moves out, I will also attempt to find a replacement roommate. I understand the need to be reasonable in accepting a replacement roommate. If I move out of the dwelling and a replacement roommate has not been found, I realize that I am still legally responsible to my roommates for paying my share of the rent and utilities.
It is a good idea to get together with your roommate(s) and discuss how living together will be. This is a sample agreement to keep it all organized. (UNH assumes no responsibility.)

Subletting is a great way to save some money when you are not planning to live on the property. However, it is important to protect yourself from liability. Below are guidelines that will help if you ever plan to sublet.

Put it in writing! Come to an agreement and put it in writing. A lease, or sublease, is a contract. Contracts are only enforceable when the parties know the terms. So, put it in writing and have everyone involved sign it. A contract needs to clearly spell out what both sides are agreeing to.

You cannot transfer your security deposit with the primary landlord over to someone else without giving the landlord a written release saying it is okay. If you don’t transfer deposits, then make sure you know who will be held liable for cleaning and damages. Sublettees tend to not clean an apartment at the end of the lease. If you want to get your security deposit back, you should plan to come back yourself to clean.

Make sure the sub-tenant has a copy of the original lease and is aware of any special provisions. Make abiding by the original lease a part of the sublease agreement. Decide ahead of time whose name will be on the bills while you are away. Remember that the final bills will arrive a month after the sub-tenant is gone. So, get forwarding addresses and keep in touch!

Leave your contact info. Make yourself available to your landlord and sub-tenants. If they know where to find you, problems will likely get solved quickly instead of growing into huge dilemmas.
This sublease agreement is a sample. You may use this or adjust it to fit your needs.

This agreement is made on ________________ (date) between the landlord, the tenant and the sub-lessee.

Any damages will be deducted from the security deposit and the remainder, if any, returned within 30 days for the termination of the tenancy. (Sub-lessee requests that the deposit be mailed to the following address: _____________________________________________________)
