Postdoctoral Scholar in Nursing

College of Health and Human Services
Department: Nursing

Description: The Department of Nursing at UNH is offering a two-year postdoctoral position. The postdoctoral fellow will establish a research agenda through working closely with nursing faculty to improve the health and wellbeing of individuals through nursing science. Experienced faculty research mentors in the department will guide a postdoctoral fellow in developing a program of research and engaging in scholarly activities. The postdoctoral fellow will be granted a research budget that may be augmented with external funding or university grants. Additional professional development support will be provided in the form of participation in faculty development academies with early career tenure track faculty, coaching by faculty colleagues, workshops on teaching and learning, involvement academic department life, and support funds. The Scholar will also attend workshops on grant writing and the development of a long-range research trajectory include funding from the NIH or other organizations. Responsibilities will include teaching one course annually.

Current areas of research within the UNH Department of Nursing include:
1. Harm reduction related to opioid use disorder
2. Parental and family stress and coping, sexual and reproductive health
3. Interprofessional team development, diagnostic reasoning, overdiagnosis/overtreatment, or interprofessional team development
4. Multi-level sources of stigma, health care access, and health of sexual and gender minority people (LGBTQ+)

Qualifications: Eligible applicants who have completed all requirements for a PhD in nursing or related disciplines who are eligible for NH licensure as a registered nurse are encouraged to apply. The successful candidate must have interest in and a commitment to a research career supporting one of our experienced faculty members areas of interest. The candidate must be able to work independently and contribute to research teams.