2.1 Shared Governance

The principle of shared governance in universities is long established by tradition and was formalized in the 1966 Joint Statement on Government of Colleges and Universities, jointly formulated by the American Association of University Professors, the American Council on Education, and the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges (see http://www.aaup.org/report/1966-statement-government-colleges-and-universities). The Joint Statement affirms that the academic institution is a "joint effort," requiring communication and consultation among all constituencies, and addresses the distinctive responsibilities of trustees, administration, faculty, staff, and students in university governance.

The distinctive responsibility of the faculty is the academic mission of the university. In particular, the joint statement asserts:

The faculty has primary responsibility for such fundamental areas as curriculum, subject matter and methods of instruction, research, faculty status, and those aspects of student life which relate to the educational process. On these matters the power of review or final decision lodged in the governing board or delegated by it to the president should be exercised adversely only in exceptional circumstances and for reasons communicated to the faculty.

2.2 Faculty Senate

The UNH Faculty Senate is the legislative body that reviews and develops policies concerned with the academic mission of the university. The Faculty Senate’s Constitution and Bylaws (see http://www.unh.edu/fac-senate/pub/constitution.html) provides for the faculty to exercise the above-mentioned responsibility through elected Faculty Senate members. The Faculty Senate is designed to work in close communication and collaboration with the Board of Trustees, principal administrators and the Council of Deans, the PAT and Operating Staff Councils, and the Student Senate, each of which have their own distinctive responsibilities as well as overlapping areas of concern. More information about the UNH Faculty Senate, its committee structure, goals, agendas, and minutes can be found at http://www.unh.edu/fac-senate. At the present time, the Faculty Senate consists only of tenure and tenure track faculty.

2.3 Tenure Track Faculty Union

All tenure track faculty are represented by the UNH Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP-UNH) in matters of salaries, benefits, working environment, and other terms and conditions of employment. AAUP-UNH is the exclusive agent for collective bargaining negotiation and in the settlement of grievances regardless of whether the faculty involved are dues-paying members of the union. As stated on the website, the goals of the UNH AAUP are:

- to strengthen faculty governance, provide fair procedures for resolving grievances,
- promote the economic well-being of the faculty, and safeguard academic freedom.

The Extension Educator classification includes the job titles of Extension Field Specialist and Extension State Specialist. The EEC represents UNH Extension Educators in UNH administrative affairs. Individuals representing the EEC serve on the System Personnel Policy Committee and on UNH committees of importance to Extension Educators. 2.6 Research Faculty Council and University Policies Relating to Research Faculty

The Research Faculty Council was formally recognized by President Huddleston in July 2013 and is guided by a set of By-Laws. The Research Faculty Council provides a structure and forum for Research Faculty to strengthen and broaden research and engagement across UNH, to interact across departments and colleges, and to contribute to entrepreneurial initiatives.

The Office of the Senior Vice Provost for Research has compiled information about employment policies and procedures that impact UNH Research Faculty in particular.
