HONORARY DEGREE

Shawn O. Gorman
Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

The great-grandson of L.L.Bean founder Leon Leonwood Bean, Shawn Gorman '89 became just the second chairman in the century-plus history of the famed Maine outdoor retail company in May 2013. He succeeded his uncle, Leon Gorman, who had served as the company's president and chairman of the board for more than four decades. Two and a half years after his appointment as chairman, Gorman was named executive chairman of L.L.Bean in December 2015.

Gorman grew up in Exeter, New Hampshire, and graduated from the University of New Hampshire with a degree in English. His L.L.Bean career began in 1991, when he joined the company's marketing department as an advertising analyst.

He went on to hold a number of leadership positions in marketing, international, e-commerce, partnership marketing and creative. His accomplishments include introducing the company to online and email marketing, shaping how the company's international customers experienced the L.L.Bean brand, and leading the company's cobranded credit card program, which is now in its 21st year. His final operational role was as senior vice president of brand communications, where he integrated brand strategies across all selling channels to ensure consistency and customer focus.

Gorman serves on the boards of the Gulf of Maine Research Institute, the University of New Hampshire and the Brooks School in North Andover, Massachusetts. He also chairs the John T. Gorman Foundation, a nonprofit organization that provides funding to better the lives of disadvantaged people in Maine. Gorman is an outdoors enthusiast, and like his great-grandfather, believes that time spent in the outdoors adds both quality and quantity to one's life.

HONORARY DEGREE

Tito H. Jackson
Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

Former Boston city councilor Tito Jackson '99 spent seven years as councilor for District 7, representing all of Roxbury and parts of the South End, Dorchester and Fenway neighborhoods. Prior to his tenure on the city council, he worked in the administration of Massachusetts' first African-American governor, Deval Patrick. Jackson served first as industry director for information technology in Patrick's executive office of housing and economic development and later as political director for the governor's successful 2010 re-election campaign.

The son of community activists Herb and Rosa Jackson, Jackson is a lifelong resident of Roxbury's Grove Hall neighborhood. A champion of children and families, he served as chair of the Boston City Council's committee on education. He also served as vice chair of the committee on government operations.

Jackson's work on these and other committees emphasized equitable economic revitalization for all of Boston's neighborhoods. He has worked tirelessly to ensure Boston residents, especially those from underrepresented communities, participate in the civic process, no matter their socioeconomic status or age.

Jackson's passion for public service and political activism stretches back to his time as a student at the University of New Hampshire, where he earned a degree in history. As an undergraduate, he played a central role in reviving the university's Black Student Union, helped spearhead efforts to increase campus diversity and was voted student body president. He has remained active in the UNH Alumni Association and received the group's Young Alumnus/Alumna Achievement Award in 2011.

In 2017, Jackson mounted a historic campaign to become Boston's first African-American mayor. While he ultimately fell short of unseating the incumbent, his campaign was regarded as groundbreaking, and he is widely credited for changing the conversation in Boston around issues of inequity for the better. The same year, he was named to the Root 100 List as one of the country's 100 most influential African-Americans.

HONORARY DEGREE

Margaret Ann Shea
Honorary Doctor of Science

Physicist Dr. Margaret “Peggy” Ann Shea ’58, ’61G spent a long and productive career forging new paths for both women and space science research.

When she matriculated to the University of New Hampshire at the age of 17, Shea was one of only three female students in the then-College of Technology — today’s College of Engineering and Physical Sciences. After earning her undergraduate degree in physics, she went on to become the first woman to earn an advanced degree in the subject from UNH in 1961. Five decades later, at the age of 64, Shea earned her doctorate in physics from the University of Tasmania, Australia.

Shea began her research career during her sophomore at UNH, hired by the physics department to monitor cosmic rays on Mt. Washington and in Durham. After earning her master’s degree, she worked briefly at the University of Hawaii as well as AVCO Corporation.

She subsequently joined the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories at Massachusetts’ Hanscom Air Force Base, where she forged a 50-year career researching the interplay between cosmic rays, solar particles and the Earth’s magnetic field. Among her scientific achievements, Shea developed the geomagnetic cutoff rigidity tables that are the international standard used by NASA and the FAA to determine radiation exposure for astronauts and airline crews in flight.

Shea authored or co-authored more than 400 scientific papers and edited the journal Advances in Space Research. She earned numerous awards, including the American Geophysical Union’s Waldo E. Smith medal for extraordinary service to geophysics, the Soviet Union Academy of Science’s commemorative medal honoring 100 years of international geophysics, and the COSPAR Distinguished Service Medal. She was selected as a foreign associate of the Royal Astronomical Society and is an Academician of the International Academy of Astronautics.

GRANITE STATE AWARD

Andrew E. Lietz

New Hampshire business executive Andrew Lietz is a former chairman of the University System of New Hampshire board of trustees and the New Hampshire Business and Industry Association. He founded and served as managing director of Rye Capital Management in Rye, New Hampshire. He also held senior executive roles at Hadco Corporation, IBM, Clare Corp and Safeguard Scientific.

A vocal proponent of the position that high-quality education would help drive long-term growth in the Granite State, Lietz helped to shepherd the 2001 Knowledge Economy Education Plan for New Hampshire (KEEP-NH) through the Legislature. The result was a $185 million package of much-needed capital renovations to the university system's aging science, engineering and technology facilities.

A graduate of Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan, Lietz has served in a number of roles for UNH. He was a member of the Whittemore School of Business and Economics (now Peter T. Paul College of Business and Economics) business advisory board and headed up President Mark Huddleston's Blue Ribbon Panel on Intercollegiate Athletics.

During the quiet phase of UNH's largest comprehensive campaign, CELEBRATE 150, Lietz served as chair of the Athletics Campaign Steering Committee. In this capacity, he helped the university realize a range of athletics-related capital improvements, including the renovation of Lundholm Gymnasium, the build-out of the Watkins Center for Student-Athlete Excellence and the construction of Wildcat Stadium.

In 2016, Lietz received UNH Athletics' Joan Leitzel Award, which honors a member of the community who has significantly enriched the lives of UNH student-athletes. He received an honorary degree from the university in 2013.

Academic Regalia

The tradition of academic regalia dates back to the Middle Ages. There has been some variation through the years, but today the American academic costume is governed by a generally accepted code.

GOWN

The gowns vary somewhat in design depending upon the academic degree they represent. There are three standard gowns: the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's. The bachelor's and the master's gowns are untrimmed. The doctor's gown is faced with velvet down the front. Three velvet bars adorn each sleeve. In celebration of UNH's 150th anniversary, the university debuted a new gown in 2016 based on the primary institutional color. The gown features the University Seal. Gowns, hoods and caps of foreign universities usually are distinctive and do not comply with the American Academic Costume Code.

CAPS

Caps are normally black. The tassel is worn on the right side until the bachelor's degree is conferred, then the tassel is worn on the left.

HOODS

Hoods are indicative of an advanced degree. The lining shows the color of the college or university granting the degree, and the trimming represents the field in which the degree is granted.

UNIVERSITY MACE

The University Mace is commonly used at formal academic ceremonies to symbolize the authority universities have to grant degrees and maintain high educational standards. Tradition dictates that it be carried by the chief faculty marshal in academic processions. The University of New Hampshire Mace, a 1983 gift of the Carolinas Club, is silver with a hammered texture. Its torch-like, tapered body features three silver seals—those of the State of New Hampshire, the Town of Durham and the University of New Hampshire—and is embellished with chips of granite.

ACADEMIC MEDALLION

The University of New Hampshire Academic Medallion is silver and features the University Seal. It is worn by the president of the university as a symbol of office.

UNIVERSITY FLAG AND COLLEGE BANNERS

The principal banner for academic ritual is the University Flag. This is always fixed and displayed on the platform. The college banners are carried in the procession by the class marshals. Traditionally, the class marshals are selected by the deans and directors of the colleges and schools on the basis of academic achievement and contributions to their class.

Alma Mater

New Hampshire, alma mater,
All hail, all hail to thee!
Behind thee tow'r the mountains,
Before thee roars the sea.
Thy sons and daughters ever
Thy praises loud will sing:
New Hampshire, alma mater,
Accept our offering.

We love thee, old New Hampshire,
And to the White and Blue,
Where'er our work shall call us,
We always will be true.
We'll ever guard thy honor,
Bright shall thy mem'ry be:
New Hampshire, alma mater,
All hail, all hail to thee!
