To those whom it concerns,

On behalf of the Student Senate of the University to New Hampshire I present to you a resolution passed unanimously expressing the student body’s condemnation of the November 13th Paris attacks. The Student Senate of the University of New Hampshire firmly believes that the strong ties that we have to Paris both as the University of New Hampshire and as the United States of America in conjunction with the terrible nature of the crimes committed warrant sincere mourning and absolute denunciation.

Respectfully,
Gabriel Hoffman
Speaker of the University of New Hampshire Student Senate
Student Senate Resolution XXXVII – 14 Condemning the Attacks in Paris

Introduced by: Campus Structure Chairperson, Zachary Dumont

Date: November 15th, 2015

Whereas, the United States of America and France have maintained strong diplomatic ties with one another since the formation of our country more than 200 years ago, and

Whereas, the United States of America has partnered with the French government to enhance academic relationships through university exchange programs, and

Whereas, the University of New Hampshire is one of many universities in the United States that has a French language and culture program, as well as an exchange program with University of Burgundy, and

Whereas the University of New Hampshire has enjoyed 50 years of academic partnership with University of Burgundy, providing cross culture experiences to several hundred students¹ in this time, and

Whereas, the University of New Hampshire, yearly, employs many French professors, some of whom are citizens of the country, while others are well-versed in it’s history, culture, and language, and

Whereas, the University of New Hampshire, this year alone, employed four professors within the French program, one in the ESL program, and another within the College of Engineering and Physical Sciences, therefore

Be it resolved by the Student Senate of University of New Hampshire that the student body openly and actively condemns the terrorist attacks of November 13th, 2015 in Paris, France, and

Be it further resolved that the Student Senate of the University of New Hampshire, along with the international French students and French professors, mourn the 132 victims of that night and the hundreds of injured.
