Like other leading universities, UNH encourages students to visit other campuses prior to attending an open house. Open house programs are held to help students decide where they wish to pursue a college education. The open house program is only one component of a college decision-making process.

For those who have already decided on UNH, the open house provides a look at what it is like to be a UNH student. Whether you are a new student or returning to campus, the open house will help you discover the many opportunities for personal and professional growth at UNH.

The open house program includes an overview of the university’s inclusive and supportive community generates a host of high-energy activities, traditions that make UNH a fun place to call home. This self-guided tour gives you an overview of the University’s culture, landscape, and academic programs, but it is only a start. We hope you will visit again and again to meet with students, faculty and staff in person. The UNH Admissions Office looks forward to meeting you soon.

You can plan your visit and apply to UNH online at www.admissions.unh.edu.
